{pos-si-bil-i-ties}

Every morning from September to June, the silence of a sunny morning or the buzz of a light drizzle is broken as just over 5,000 Broncos wake up to another life in the day of a Santa Clara Student. Weekday to weekend there is never a shortage of things to do in what many students have lovingly dubbed "The Clara". From weekend trips to Tahoe, to San Francisco, to biking to Santana Row, to spending a lazy day catching up on the latest episodes of modern family and nursing that all to familiar headache, each and every day holds opportunity for an SCU Bronco. These opportunities make each SCU student's experience different and unique. They appeal to every interest, of every kind, and attract the variety of students of which Saint Claire herself would be proud. But not only do these opportunities provide innumerable ways to entertain oneself after that 3:40 class much more. They open up a world of possibilities to each and

This book aims to capture a glimpse of the possibilities offered to every student during their time as a Bronco. While this task is close to impossible, a number of them have found their way on to the pages of this book, as it is these possibilities that make up the SCU experience. # Midterms.

An ever present fact of any college student's life, nation wide. And yet, beyond the stress and monotony of these frequent scholastic challenges, these are aronly a piece of what makes a Bronco's academic experience. There is something to be said about getting an education in the heart of the Silicon Valley. Yes, there are the aesthetic perks to being nestled amidst palm trees and the majestic hills of the Santa Cruz, but ask any student on campus and you'll be sure to find that behind the picturesque skyline is a library full of students writing up note cards, formulating theses, finishing up homework, and finishing their last minute studying for the midterm of the week. The fast-paced life of a quarter system student sets Santa Clara students on a much steeper learning curve than most. But don't be fooled, us Broncos maintain their "Work Hard, Play Hard" attitude even when it comes to scholastics. As week 6 approaches each quarter, the library begins to pack with study parties, reserving study rooms from dawn till far past dusk. Santa Clara students possess a drive for learning that far outreaches the mere quest for a degree. From classes to abroad programs to career-fairs, you're sure to see Broncos across the campus striving to get the most out of their four years at SCU. While the going does get tough, the mountains of papers grow ever higher and the number of midterms within one week seems near to impossible, the possibilities for a Santa Clara graduate are innumerable and we Broncos achieve them with style.

MeasureUp

SCU Faculty

Day in and day out, Santa Clara students are graded. From presentations to midterms to class participation, our every action is noted and evaluated. But three times a year, the tables are turned, and one website gives students the opportunity to grade back. The currently popular RateMyProfessor.com allows students to review their professors on 3 basic factors on a scale of 5, Helpfulness, Clarity & Ease, and write hints for students considering taking their courses. Surprisingly enough, some of the highest ranked teachers are also the toughest. Especially useful during those stressful and time sensitive registration periods. From Math to History to Italian to Biology, this site is a quick and dirty way to decide whether a professor is worth the waitlist. So who are some of SCU's top rated teachers in 2010? Thanks to RateMyProfessor.com, here they are:

Name: Mario Belotti      Overall Quality: 4.3      Ease: 3.2

Economics - With 2010 marking his 51st year at Santa Clara University, Professor Belotti is on of the most respected Economics professors in the Valley. Taking a class from Professor Belotti has become a rite of passage of sorts for business students of all majors, just ask Santa Clara's own Father Locatelli who was his student during his years at Santa Clara. From growing up to rural Italy to working in the Silicon Valley, Professor Belotti has done it all. When he isn't teaching his passion of economics, Professor Belotti can be found traveling as an economic consultant, having visited over 15 different countries with his work.

Name: Laurie Poe      Overall Quality: 4.6      Ease: 3.1

Mathematics - For most students, the terms energetic, interesting, and exciting do not go hand in hand with mathematics. Students in Professor Poe's courses however, would beg to differ. As the recipient of the Dr. David E. Logothett Teaching Award in September of 2009, it is obvious that Santa Clara agrees and recognizes her effort. The award established Poe as having a well earned reputation "for an energetic, engaging, and effective teaching style and having demonstrated the ability to motivate other teachers and learners". While math may not be everyone's favorite subject, Professor Poe make sure that everyone is always working with positives.

Name: Chris Paisley      Overall Quality: 4.8      Ease: 1.8

Accounting - With a sought after class and an impressive resume to back it up, Professor Paisley has become one of the more respected accounting professors at Santa Clara University. Though he boasts the background and skill incomparable to many, Professor Paisley focuses on the basic love of accounting, teaching only one Accounting II course. Described by students as "the picture perfect good professor. Crystal clear, very organized, passionate and very helpful to students. You really can't get any better than this". While acing his class is no easy task, there is no doubt that you'll leave it a lot better versed in accounting than when you stepped in the door.

Name: Phil Kesten Overall Quality: 5.0 Ease: 2.2

Physics-For teaching one of the hardest subjects on campus, Professor Kesten is one of Santa Clara's most loved teachers. Who knew that physics could really be deemed fun? When reviewed by a former student, "Going to his lectures is like going to a movie. He makes you love physics for 55 minutes". The material is difficult, and in all honesty, so are the exams, but at the end of the quarter, physics will seem like a breeze. Don't be deterred by the slew of equations on the board - Professor Kesten knows his stuff and with his help and a little effort, you will too. Professor Kesten is enjoying his 20th year at Santa Clara and splits his duties between Associate Professor and Associate Provost for Undergraduate Studies.

Name: Irene Bubula-Phillips Overall Quality: 5.0 Ease: 3.8

Languages-Put bluntly by a previous student, "If you like awesome teachers, take her class". Professor Bubula-Phillips has built a reputation of positivistic mindset, helpfulness, and intelligence throughout her classes. Fluent in her native Italian, English, and Spanish, Professor Bubula-Phillips is a wiz with words and a linguistic anomaly with a true passion for helping her students master languages during their time at Santa Clara. She currently teaches beginning and intermediate Spanish and Italian and advanced Italian.

Name: Jerry Klemushin Overall Quality: 3.3 Ease: 3.9

Marketing and OMIS-On the first day of Professor Klemushin's class his students are asked one simple favor: "Call me Dr. K". A highly respected marketing consultant in the area, Dr. K's class never sees a dull moment, fielding guest speaking V.P.'s from companies across the Silicon Valley. Balancing between Operations Management 108 and E-Commerce Marketing, Dr. K keeps students entertained, involved, informed, and connected. With real world projects, Dr. K ensures that every person in his classes leaves with something new to add to their interviewing arsenal.

Name: James Cottrill Overall Quality: 5.0 Ease: 2.0

Political Science-When it comes to political science, soft spoken James Cottrill has the American government on lock down. Seemingly more knowledgeable about Congress, Presidents, Laws, and the reasoning behind them than Congress themselves, Professor Cottrill breaks down political theory in ways that are clear and interesting for students to understand. Usually incorporating a simulation to really get students engaged with the material, Professor Cottrill strives to continually build a student's passion for learning. Another fun fact? When he's not teaching, Professor rips up the stage on his electric piano as a member of his band, Floodgate.

School of Arts & Sciences

Building minds of the future

Santa Clara's School of Arts and Sciences has had a reigning influence on the intellectual and innovative experiences of its students. Through competence, conscience and compassion, the college educates leaders with an emphasis on Jesuit education in the liberal arts and sciences. Offering 35 majors and over 40 minors, the college has created an environment for students to achieve great success and enrich their lives through scholarships, community educators, and a variety of intellectual, artistic, and cultural programs.

Because offerings within Arts and Sciences are so broad, I find that I have been able to study many more things, both in my major and otherwise. The CORE requirements have exposed me to many courses that I may not otherwise have considered taking.

- Andrea Carrera, '10

Senior Andrea Carrera's experience within the School of Arts and Sciences has been exceptional. As a double major in Psychobiology and Religious Studies, Andrea is often confronted with questions of what brought her to choose such seemingly contradictory majors. But to Andrea, people are a mixture of mind, body and spirit. The School of Arts and Sciences has allowed her to study all of these aspects in combination. Her favorite professor has been Fredrick Parrella, because his course in the Theology of Paul Tillich opened her eyes to a whole new view of religion, theology and spirituality. Her advice to incoming freshmen is: "Don't dread the CORE classes: they may be the ones in which you grow as a person the most!"

Special Programs

ACE Program ~ Standing for Accelerated Cooperative Education, the Leavey School of Business's ACE program is a highly sought after honor which will help business students throughout all four years of their Santa Clara University experience. With the ultimate goal of "creating business leaders of the future who will embody Santa Clara University's ideals of competence, conscience and compassion, this group of students hold a huge amount of potential. Through internships and service learning, these students are especially challenged to push the bounds of their education and are given the amazing opportunity of access to Silicon Valley business leaders and mentor programs. These tools help facilitate a seamless transition into the business world following graduation and provide students with amazing alumni connections, even after they leave Santa Clara.

Leavey Scholars Program ~ One of Santa Clara's highest honors within the business school, the Leavey Scholars program is offered by invitation only to the best of the best within the business school. Offered at the beginning of the sophomore year, the program is offered to those students who have shown exceptional progress throughout their freshman year at Santa Clara and have maintained a cumulative GPA within the top 10-15% of their class. In addition to the prestige and recognition of membership within the Leavey Scholars program, scholars also receive many benefits that reward them for their academic excellence. With special "honors" course sections of certain classes available, students are sure to work with other students who share their motivation and passion for learning. Additionally, students are offered early registration times and a number of internship and networking opportunities throughout their time as SCU.

Business for Others: Immersion Trips ~ "Students, in the course of their formation, must let the gritty reality of this world into their lives, so they can learn to feel it, think about it critically, respond to its suffering and engage it constructively." - Peter-Hans Kolvenbach, S.J. This statement fully embodies and inspires the LSB Business Immersion trip to El Salvador over Spring Break. It offers business students the opportunity to learn outside the classroom and to live along side the people of poor and rural communities and learn from their lives.

Design On A Mission

School of Engineering

The Santa Clara School of Engineering teaches students how to be innovators in this ever-evolving field of study. Areas of study within the School of Engineering are Bioengineering, Civil Engineering, Computer Science and Engineering, Electrical Engineering, General Engineering, Mechanical Engineering and new this year, Web Design and Engineering. Students learn in a hands-on, project-based manner. Seniors even participate in a Capstone project that involves working with other engineering students in other disciplines and carrying out a design project from beginning to end. This gives them the experience necessary to become professionals.

This year four engineering students went above and beyond with their project. Kevin Brashem, Jeff Abercrombie, Johnny Buccola, and Matt Pavlik worked in the Robotic System's Laboratory on an underwater Remotely Operated Vehicle (ROV) called Mantaris. Mantaris is one of the most powerful ROV's in her size class on the west coast. These four engineers not only worked to make the robot operational, but they also developed an autonomous control system for it. Since GPS doesn't work underwater, these engineers developed a way to use above-water GPS and sonar to navigate the vehicle. It is projects like these that allow students to stand out in the job market and have opportunities all over the world.

New This Year: Web Design and Engineering
Starting this year, Santa Clara engineering students have the option to study Web Design and Engineering. Rather than focusing solely on computing, this new major focuses on the relationship between the internet and society. Students take classes in programming, communications and sociology. The major was designed by Dr. Dan Lewis of the Computer Engineering Department. It was designed to prepare students for a wide variety of careers in the constantly expanding internet industry.

Think Outside The

"Since taking "Joy of Garbage" I don't think I've thrown anything away. It's really raised my awareness about how we should use and reuse our materials in ways that are even better than recycling. I also have a new appreciation for the composting program at SCU if I have learned anything in this class it's that innovative efforts, like these, make a difference in changing our mindset about how much we waste."

-Julianne Brands

2 Professor Hughes in Bariloche, Argentina.

1 Nancy Unger's "Women In American Society"

History 84 isn't your typical History course. It's no "Great Women in American History", but a study of actual everyday women in the United States from the pre-colonial period to the present. It traces how what it means to be a "natural woman" changes dramatically over time. We spend a lot of time discussing the differences between the sexes in American history, and how many of those differences were based in culture rather than biology. Unger is a self-proclaimed "History nerd," and describes that History is her great passion "because gaining historical perspective can be a powerful tool in helping people to better understand not just their society, but themselves. In the first few weeks, students tend to think of it as an interesting look at how women in the past were shaped by societal ideas. But as we get nearer to the present, they begin to see aspects of their own lives that they thought of as entirely personal in a very different light. They see the value of history, not as an intellectual abstract but as a source of personal empowerment." Unger also adds that her students are "constantly surprising me. They bring fresh insights and ideas to the subject matter. I have been teaching this class for more than twenty years, but my students are always teaching me something new."

2 Stephanie Hughes' "Joy of Garbage"

How many times have you mindlessly tossed a soda can into the trash? We've all done it without a second thought because for the most part, it never has any consequences. However, in Professor Hughes' "Joy of Garbage" course students see that our methods with dealing with garbage may have lasting (and extremely negative) effects on our environment in the future. With the goal of pollution prevention and encouraging others to believe in corporate responsibility. "Many non-EnvS majors enroll in my class, and it is a pleasure to have outlooks and input from such a wide variety of majors. I find it very rewarding to be educating Broncos about key environmental aspects of our lives, as I expect you to be future community, state, and national leaders. We are a very materialistic society - and rarely stop to think of the wastes and energy associated with all our "stuff." For instance, we don't think much about our own curbside trash, never mind the behind-the-scenes mining, industrial, and agricultural wastes behind our consumption choices. Neither do we think about what wastes go down our sinks and toilets, but that can include some very disruptive environmental chemicals. And of course we take for granted that the lights will turn on when we flip a switch, without thinking about the myriad of environmental repercussions that depend on the original source of that electrical energy." During the quarter, Professor Hughes is taking her students to Sunnyvale's waste water treatment plant and materials recovery facility so they can see what people are doing right now to improve sustainability. "I see my mission as getting more people to think about energy use and the materials (and chemicals) we consume, toss out, and flush, to realize how we are interacting with the world around us all the time. Knowledge is the first step to change. And if we can have some laughs while we do it, all the better!"

Cool Classes at SCU

"After taking 'Politics in the Middle East, with Professor Senzai' it has inspired within me the desire to have further study in the complex realm that is the political powder keg that is the Middle East. Furthermore, it illustrated for me a potential career path."

Professor Senzai

3 Dan Dexheimer's "Sociology of Crime"

Have you noticed that when they were supposed to be studying you suddenly found yourself watching a marathon of CSI, Law & Order, Bones, or one of the many crime shows on T.V.? If you have Sac 159, might be the class for you. In the class Dexheimer addresses the common misconceptions shows like these have created. "Everyone has ideas about what prison life and the mentalities of those that commit crime, but once we begin really diving into the material, people realize that what they previously thought may be far from the realities." The most impactful piece of learning though? A field trip to San Quentin touring the facilities. "After the tour students just want to go home and sleep, but the next day they came to class buzzing and ready to talk about the experience."

4 John Farnsworth's "Writing Natural History" and Elizabeth Dahlhoff's "Baja Natural History"

For the last three years during Winter Quarter students apply for the tandem course of John Farnsworth's ENVS 142 and Stephanie Dahlhoff's ENVS 144. If you're one of the lucky chosen ones, you spent Tuesday's with Farnsworth, working on advancing your writing skills, while Thursday's are spent with Dahlhoff studying ecosystems and various species in the Baja region. Why Baja you ask? At the end of the quarter, students travel to Baja with both Dahlhoff and Farnsworth and backpack fifty miles while attempting to find the various species they studied in class, while writing journal entries about their experiences. "It's a strange proponent of experiential learning," Farnsworth stated, "I believe it's when the most significant learning takes place," and with a large number of students raving about their experience, Farnsworth may have a good point.

5 Farid Senzai's "Politics of the Middle East"

Professor Senzai's PoliSci 142 may seem like your typical political science class. It includes an overview of historical, economic, and social issues in the Middle East. Initially it starts from the historical standpoint and builds up to the current issues going on right now. Sounds typical right? If you answered yes then you most likely haven't taken a class from Professor Senzai. Born in Afghanistan and moving to the Sacramento area at age ten, Senzai continued on to attend Oxford University before coming to SCU to teach "Politics of the Middle East," something he passionately declares is "my favorite subject to teach by far, and I think students can see that." The Middle East, he believes, "isn't something that can be seen with a broad brushstroke. There's so much diversity and I'm often disappointed with media portrayals that don't show that." After being offered a think tank in D.C. Senzai was torn about what to do, but when a student reminded him of the impact he was making on the lives of SCU students everyday, he quickly decided to stay at SCU and anyone that's taken his classes have been thankful for that.

Study Abroad 2009-10

Life is too short to stay in one place. Take the opportunity to explore, immerse yourself in another culture, and experience what life is like at another school. Study abroad! Santa Clara University offers 106 different locations in over 50 separate countries for students to study abroad at. Experiences like these can teach you more about yourself, your beliefs, your abilities, and most importantly, other countries. Just talk to one of the many students who have studied abroad and you will discover the amazing stories they have to tell. The world is waiting. Challenge yourself!

Milan, Italy

I wouldn't trade my experience abroad for anything in the world! I got to see places I only dreamed of ever visiting - Paris, Barcelona, London, Ireland - I met amazing people and learned a countless number of things, in and out of school. I couldn't ask for anything more from a study abroad opportunity.

"Traveling, studying, and especially living in another country opens up your eyes. In France, I learned more than the language; I learned a different way to live. The priorities are different, with more of an emphasis on relationships and family instead of work and money. And afterward, you take home habits and traditions you picked up, combining them with old ones, ultimately shaping your own personal character."

Buenos Aires, Argentina

"Studying abroad in Argentina was such an incredible experience for me. Not only was I able to improve my Spanish and travel around South America, but waking up every day was an adventure because I never quite knew what was going to happen. While studying abroad, I think I learned probably just about as much about myself as I did Argentine culture, and I absolutely can't wait to go back."

London, England

While studying in London, many people traveled to different countries but I preferred to stay in England and explore what the country had to offer intellectually and culturally. I realized how essential it was to immerse myself into the English customs in order to gain the full experience. This reason may be why the best experience for me was the internship I took part in. In London, I didn't think there would be a huge language barrier however, after working with all Londoners, I found myself acclimating to the witty banter and phrases. Everyday would test my social values, but in the end, I found myself appreciating their culture tremendously."

"Studying abroad in Paris was a wonderful experience where I learned the language and met new friends I feel I will stay in contact with forever. While I was there I traveled to many of Europe's finest places including Barcelona, Amsterdam, Norway, Prague, and Italy. The best part was meeting new friends and hanging out with them every day. Overall, I loved Paris because I had a welcoming homestay family and I saw how Europe worked. I was able to meet the French citizens and I learned that the stereotype of French women not shaving their legs is not true, thankfully. Europe is wild!"

Interesting Majors

Santa Clara's Entrepreneur

Environmental Studies and Business

Katherine Nicholson '10

WHY DID YOU CHOOSE THIS MAJOR?

"I chose this major for two reasons: there was no way I could complete a double major between the two schools- Arts & Sciences and the Business school- in the time I had before graduation, because of differing school requirements. Also, I wanted to do this because I was interested in both environmental studies and business as it is related. I have really enjoyed learning both disciplines, and find correlations between the two subjects in every class that I take. I feel that environmental business is an up and coming field that I will have a great deal to contribute to."

YOU ARE THE 1st PERSON TO TAKE THIS MAJOR-WHAT WAS IT LIKE TO PETITION FOR IT?

"It was not a terrible process to create this major. I applied to and was accepted to the Individual Studies program, and worked with Jean Pederson to create an outline of what I would like to study, and what I wanted to get out of my major at Santa Clara. I then identified an adviser whom I trusted to help me with the process. Leslie Gray, the director of the Environmental Studies Institute is my adviser, and initially really helped me to create my major."

WHAT DO YOU HOPE TO DO WITH THIS MAJOR?

"I work in San Mateo, California in a youth program that is part of the Pacific Forestry and Watershed Lands Stewardship Council. Their main purpose is to provide funding to connect local youth with the outdoors. It is a great mix of both Environmental Studies and Business concepts, which is what I hope to be able to do in the future."

Web Design & Engineering

Ryan Selewicz '13

WHY DID YOU CHOOSE THIS MAJOR?

"I chose this major because I have always had an interest in technology. The major caught my eye because it was new and in a growing field. I thought it was interesting because it combines computer engineering, communications, and sociology to form a well rounded degree. It is exciting because Santa Clara University is one of the only schools, if not the only school, in the country to have this degree. I have enjoyed using what I have learned in class on my photography website, www.RyanSelewicz.com."

DEFINE THIS MAJOR IN YOUR OWN WORDS/

"The Web Design & Engineering major is fairly diverse in its curriculum. Students take classes in computer programming, communications and even some sociology. The major is designed to prepare students to be able to use the internet and technology most efficiently as a communication tool."

WHAT DO YOU HOPE TO DO WITH THIS MAJOR?

"I don't know exactly what I want to do, but I am interested in technology and I know I will have plenty of opportunities in the Silicon Valley since it is such a growing field. I have always wanted to work for Google, though, so maybe that will be a possibility."

Political Science

Megan Miller '12

MAJOR IN YOUR OWN WORDS:

"I am majoring in Political Science, which analyzes different political systems, how they function and their effects."

WHY DID YOU CHOOSE THIS MAJOR?

"I really enjoy politics and I think it's important for everyone to understand how politics impacts their lives. The political system impacts every citizen, so I think it's really important to learn the ins and outs of how it works. I grew up in a very political family so I always guessed political science was in my future. My dad held public office all throughout my life, and my brother currently holds public office, so political science is something I'm familiar with and feel passionate about. Also, I worked as a Senate page my junior year of high school and I experienced the way our government works first hand. This helped me realize I wanted to learn the theory behind our system and how it compares to other systems."

WHAT DO YOU PLAN ON DOING WITH THIS MAJOR?

"I plan on using my major to help me in law school and then in my career as a lawyer."

Mechanical Engineering and Physics

Justin Peel '10

MAJOR IN YOUR OWN WORDS:

"I have two majors: Mechanical Engineering with a emphasis in aerospace, and Physics."

WHY DID YOU CHOOSE THESE MAJORS?

"I chose them because I was divided between two things I really enjoyed, and I just couldn't choose. I find the practicality of engineering attractive, and mechanical engineering is particularly interesting because of its versatility and emphasis on physical products. Physics is fascinating to me because of the beauty of the fundamental laws."

WHAT DO YOU HOPE TO DO WITH THESE MAJORS?

"I'd like to eventually work in cutting-edge research and development. I like working with problems that either haven't yet been encountered, or haven't yet been solved. To me, there's a sense of discovery in advanced research that is unlike anything else in this line of work."

Each year,

from September to June, Santa Clara is infiltrated by hundreds of events that define the experience of the students that call this university home. While society would have us believe that there is one huge, must-have college experience, most SCU students would beg to differ. Yes, there is that quintessential night in every student's mind where the last page of an all-night paper prints as the final second before the deadline tick by; the day party so epic, it's surprising MTV wasn't filming and Kent Dorfman didn't walk out chanting "TO-GA". But our campus and our student life are so unique, an SCU experience offers much more. The fads, the issues, the trends, the popular hotspots. The trip to Tahoe when the skies were clear, you could have sworn you were in a postcard. These make up our 2010 experience. Will they stand the test of time and relate to students in 50 years? It's possible. But no matter what, one fact will remain the same: the students of SCU determine the college experience, and 2010 – it's been one epic ride.

The make-it or break-it experiences of SCU

To many, Santa Clara exemplifies a well respected institution of higher learning, rich in opportunities, at the heart of the Silicon Valley. While the academic reputation and beautiful location do make up a piece of the Santa Clara University experiences, most students would argue that there is far more to gain from the four years between Move-in Weekend and Graduation Day. Be they big or small, there are certain experiences with which nearly every student on campus can identify with and which make their college experience unique to Santa Clara.

In order to better understand what it really means to get the most out of a Santa Clara education, we extended a question to the student body? What experiences tie you here? What would you be sure to never miss out on? In essence, what are the "make-it" or "break-it" experiences at SCU?

Just under four hours and you're free of nagging homework, benson food, and classes for the weekend. Ah the sweet bliss of Tahoe. This 12k race includes hundreds and thousands of racers and non racers a like and runs from the financial district through golden gate park. While last year's winner finished the race in close to thirty minutes, most students take the day as a way to enjoy the sun and scenery of beautiful San Francisco and party with the rest of the Bay Area.

Dads & Grads

At most institutions, the morning of the Graduation ceremony is spent prepping for the big walk, rehearsing that proud grin of acceptance as you pose with your diploma, or wringing your wrists as the realization that your last full day of college has finally arrived. Well, at SCU, these rituals aren't much different. Except one small thing that is... Dad's & Grads. What initially began as a meet and greet between Graduates and their fathers at one of Santa Clara's more noted establishments: The Hut, has now evolved into a celebratory event for the whole family. Provided, that is, that the whole family is over 21. This tradition and rite of passage gives grads one last day in the life of a college student.

No doubt, any student on campus will agree that the campus where we work, eat, sleep, and play is beautiful. In fact, for many students, the picturesque panoramas and pristine palms are one of the major reasons we broncos love to call this place home. But what is the story behind this flora and fauna? Where did our school get the trees that line Palm drive? Over the years, many myths have arisen but above all these, one truth remains. We live in a beautiful place, let's appreciate it Broncos!

USC/SCU Palm Trees

Name Change Deback

Many many years ago, 25 to be exact, the Santa Clara campus went through a change greater than even the change in temperature from winter to spring quarter. In an effort to avoid confusion, the University of Santa Clara came to an agreement with the ever popular University of Southern California to change it's name to Santa Clara University. Not only did this change affect the acronym by which we are recognized, but many would argue it changed the face of the university as well. Rumor has it that as a part of the agreement, USC also agreed to donate the number of palm trees which line Palm Drive, the entrance to campus, as a sign of gratitude for Santa Clara giving up the name it had cherished since 1912.

A Rose By Any Other Name

Rules of the Roses

One of the most serene places on campus can be recognized by it's distinct fragrance and bright variety of colors. No, we're not talking about the SWIG laundry room. The Santa Clara rose garden boasts a wide variety of roses in nearly every shade of every color and is a great place for students to take a breather from the stress and pressure of college life and admire the beauty of our campus. Rumor has it, however, that any student with the gaul to pick one of these beautiful flowers faces fines upwards of $200 and other potential punishments. Fact or fiction? Fiction, but the flowers are so beautiful, campus safety does nothing to squash the rumors as they help to protect the beautiful and prominent features on campus.

Practicing Pilot

When I Grow Up...

In the words of Claire Gahagan, '10, future pilot:

"My inspiration for becoming a pilot came from my family. Starting out when I was ten, my grandpa would tell me stories about his training for the Naval Air Corps during WWII. He would tell me how magically flying felt and how amazing it was to travel to places and see new things outside of the United States. My grandpa told me that planes are such beautiful machines that gave you the freedom to travel wherever you want.

Ever since then I was hooked. I couldn't wait to get in the cockpit let alone get my hands on the steering wheel of a car. As fate would have it, driving came perfectly natural to me, making it even more exciting for the day I would operate and fly a plane. I can remember everyday after I got my license driving around to SJSU airport just to sit on top of the hood of my car and watch planes land and take off for hours.

Every time I traveled somewhere with my parents, I always had to go up to the cockpit and talk to the pilots. And when we were up in the air I couldn't get enough of it! I loved the feeling, the sites, the sounds everything. Every time I got in an airplane my parents would have to drag me out. I thought it was the most amazing experience.

Currently, I am training to get my private pilot's license. I have 1,500 flying hours to go! After that, I plan on getting my commercial license. After graduation [from Santa Clara], I am joining the Peace Corps to fly cargo planes of supplies to countries in need like Sudan. I cannot wait to do the thing I am most passionate about and help people in need at the same time. It is truly going to be the most rewarding experience of my life. After I serve the Peace Corps, I will probably either join the Airforce or a commercial airline."

Claire is currently a Mathematics and Computer Science (with an emphasis in Cryptology) major with a minor in physics.

I love designing shoes because it's an amazing, creative outlet.

For Junior Lauren Duncan, '11, it all started in high school. She had always been interested in fashion, especially shoes, but she never knew quite how to pursue the interest. "My senior year of high school I did a workshop on how to make a pair of shoes by hand," explains Duncan, "It just clicked! I said to myself 'this is what I'm going to do with my life.'" She continued to design new shoes and even taught herself how to sew. Although she had an interest in shoes before the class, she explains the real passion came once she knew how to make shoes herself. Taking classes in fashion at her local community college, Duncan continued to learn and pursue her dreams that just weren't possible in the high school setting. For a school art exhibit, Lauren made six additional pairs of shoes and sewed several articles of clothing to go with them. This was her first "showcase," and it inspired her to continue following her dream of one day designing a line of shoes of her own.

Lauren Duncan, '11

In September of 2008, Duncan's sophomore year, the aspiring designer found herself in Las Vegas as a shadow for the shoe company New York Transit Inc. She attended a shoe convention in which shoes of every genre, level, and type—companies ranging from Sketchers to Steve Madden to Dolce and Gabbana—were displayed for potential store buyers. Not only did Duncan get to examine shoes that were yet to be released to the public, as a shadow she also helped with the different shoes' fit and which shoes were good picks.

At the convention Duncan was introduced to a woman named Lynsey Hand who worked at the company's London branch. Duncan mentioned the possibility of her studying abroad in London, and was offered an internship if she did. "Of course I accepted it right away!" She exclaimed. Better yet, Duncan was able to set up the internship through Santa Clara and received credit for the job.

The year before going abroad, however, Duncan got busy starting sketches for her own line. She met with the VP of New York Transit Inc. in Los Angeles who gave her a project: build a collection of womens shoes set to come out by August of 2010. They discussed hundreds of shoes they had seen after and a long day of "shoe shopping", and proceeded to spend eight hours designing and sketching her entire collection of twenty-two shoes. "You really need to be able to design and sketch for yourself," said Duncan. Feeling that her skills were not up to par, she took a drawing class at Santa Clara and plans to take several more. Unfortunately for Duncan, she faced her first setback upon hearing that, because of the economic downfall, her line "Lauren Elizabeth" will be on hold—for now.

Duncan continues sketching ideas and waiting. For now she is focusing on perfecting her sketching and design skills and also creating a logo for her line. She remains a full time student at SCU, working toward a communications major with a double minor in retail management and business.

Most Embarrassing

Moments ...they happen to the best of us...

If only we could rewind time. We all find ourselves in pinches, desperately trying to escape gazing eyes of others to avoid embarrassment. We asked students the question, "What is your most embarrassing moment at Santa Clara?"

"MOST embarrassing moment: being a senior and going to the wrong building for a class." -Katherine Nicholson '10

"My all time most embarrassing moment was when I was a Freshman living in Swig. My buddies stole my clothes from the shower stall, and they took my keys with them. This left me outside my locked door, waiting for Campus Safety. The worst part is that I only had my small towel to cover myself up. Campus safety just laughed at me when they came to open the door."

-anonymous

"Brand new library. mango smoothie. flip flops. stairs. trip. smoothie everywhere. concerned onlookers checking if I had hurt myself. turning bright red. getting paper towel to clean smoothie from stairs and my clothes. it was the first short set of stairs so everyone in the first floor witnessed my awkwardness. ha. good times." -Thain Simon '11

"I was walking through the library doors with friends and I tripped over a scooter and completely fell. Worst part is that it was finals week and the library was fully occupied. Welcome to college!" -Callie John '13

Santa Clara's Finest Instances of "Whoops"

"I was walking to class one day when I saw my friend riding his skateboard. I yelled his name, he turned around and completely smashed into a pole. I wouldn't say it was my most embarrassing moment, but it sure was his!"
-anonymous

"The worst part of my day was realizing that I had walked from Benson to Kenna with toilet paper stuck to my shoe." -anonymous

The Math Major Model

Brittany Markert

If you're a t.v. watcher (and let's be honest, who doesn't use it as the perfect reason to avoid our classwork) they you've most likely heard of the hit show "America's Next Top Model." During cycle thirteen of ANTM, SCU's own Brittany Markert competed for the title. While she didn't make it to the end, Markert has made a successful career out of modeling. While it was "definitely hard to say goodbye but I'm so proud because I get critiqued like, 'Oh, you look like a catalogue model! What little math nerd doesn't want to hear that? That's a great compliment to me," said Markert after being sent home. With Brittany currently traveling the world for different modeling jobs though, it looks like Brittany has come far from the math nerd, but with a degree from SCU, she's got both beauty and brains.

The T-Shirt Entrepreneur

What started as a personal hobby in 2007 has become quite the success story around SCU. Michael Kawamoto's t-shirt business "Aloha Coterie" (named for "Aloha" meaning happiness, friendship and love and "Coterie" meaning a group of people unified by a common purpose) became a business in 2009. When asked what his future goal with the company, Kawamoto replied that he plans to continue printing shirts for the SCU community as well as other organizations as clubs as well as "researching current non-profit organizations that work to provide clean water to those who need it and donate a portion of my proceeds to the cause. "I really enjoy providing something that makes people happy, helps them to express themselves in a positive way and gives others joy and excitement. In the past people have told me to "pursue a career in what you have a passion for and then it's not work any more." I know what that means now." Want to see Kawamoto's designs? "I am the CEO and Co-Founder of the label. In addition to running the business side I am the chief recording engineer and producer," Harding stated. Artists on his label have opened for a handful of Top 40 acts and his music is played on the biggest radio station in New England weekly. "The mission of the label is to develop our collection of artists individually while at the same time introducing their music to fans that would not normally listen to their niche genre of music." ## The English Major iTunes Artist Austin Pidgeon Ever since his neighbor's mom was dating a biker who used to bring his guitar and taught him a song eight years ago, Austin Pidgeon has been in love with music. "I started writing music early in high school, but did not pursue it seriously until later years. Music has been an everyday influence in my life, so it is amazing that I can now be an active part of that, and share that with others." With the help of producer Jason Root Pidgeon recorded an album. From there, they released the single, "The River's Run Dry", in January of 2009, and have been working on the rest of the EP ever since." When asked about his favorite music out there now, Pidgeon replied, "I think it is important, as with any of the other arts, to immerse yourself in all genres of it, to see music from one spectrum to the other, in order to gather a better understanding and appreciation of it. I've gone through countless phases of favorite genres in my life, but recently I find myself listening mostly to reggae, blues, acoustic rock, and underground hip hop." Pidgeon is an English major at SCU and when asked about his future plans, Pidgeon replied that he tries not to plan any part of my life too far down the road, "but after graduation I hope to continue playing music, as well as travel, maybe spending a year in Latin America doing volunteer work." Give Austin a listen on iTunes.

“A great success!” This is how Team California describes their third place victory at the 2009 Solar Decathlon. The Solar Decathlon is a competition sponsored by the U.S. Department of Energy in which twenty university teams designed and built an 800 square foot zero-energy home. A zero-energy home refers to its ability to produce as much renewable energy on its own as it consumes. The homes combined solar energy and energy efficiency to show the public what steps we can take to ease the world’s ever increasing energy and pollution problems.

“Team California” represents the collaboration of Santa Clara University and California College of the Arts. With a team of over 60 members, students’ responsibilities ranged from the architecture, communications, and engineering teams, construction, and project management.

After over a year of planning and preparation, Team California spent this last summer constructing the house and finally, sending the house on its way to Washington D.C. “The hardest part was the life commitment to the project,” explains Kadee Mardula, '11, the Communications Lead for the Refract House. “We were all full time students while spending around 90 hours a week on the project. Over the summer we have 7am- 10pm days while we completed the house.”

Starting on October 8th, the teams competed for over a week in ten different categories including architecture, market viability, engineering, lighting design, communications, comfort zone, hot water, appliances, home entertainment, and net metering. Team California placed within the top three in many of the contests, placing first in the architecture and communications categories, second in engineering, home entertainment and appliances, and third in water and market viability. “Our most feared competition was Team Germany” Mardula said. As a very technologically advanced country in solar energy, Germany sent a top team who won first in the 2007 Solar Decathlon. They placed first again this year, followed by University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign for second.

Various members of Team California celebrate their third-place finish.

With Envy

Solar Decathlon 2009

The Refract House stands in all its glory before being disassembled and sent back to California.

It has been a rollercoaster of emotions for Team California, working through countless frustrations and successes until their hard work paid off. Mardula says of her experience, "I will never be able to adequately describe the atmosphere at the award ceremony and the contest announcements. Every team was huddled together, grabbing hands, hugging, longingly gazing into space—everyone hoping to bet he last name read [as] the winner. Hearing Team California made my heart just leap out of my chest."

Why have a solar decathlon? The competition not only educated the participants, but also the public about what changes can be made now and in the future to live more sustainably. "There are so many aspects that people can apply to their current home, not to mention all the opportunities for new homes. I love that we can save money while we help the planet," explains Mardula.

With a diverse group of students and faculty, the members of Team California proved not only their intelligence and creativity, but also their ability to invent one of the most innovative homes green technology has ever seen. As we must start addressing climate issues now, these students' accomplishments proudly put Santa Clara University on the map as a top prestigious institute for innovative technologies.

Students often worked late into the night preparing the Refract House for competition.

I like living in Dunne because while everyone is lively and fun, it's also a place you can study. It has a good balance between work and play and the community feel awesome. It's a home away from home.

"Living in Walsh Hall has given me a deep appreciation for the diversity at this school. I don't think anywhere else on campus you can find a residence hall with as many different cultures and backgrounds in one living space. Being a part of the Unity Learning Community has allowed me to make a comfortable transition as a minority to Santa Clara University."

Possibilities

BB

Who knows if anyone will still be talking about social media or if couches will still burn on Market Street after a big Broncos win over the Gonzaga Bull Dogs in 2050. What we do know is that we are defining Santa Clara this year, that we make up what it means to be a Bronco, and that we have limitless opportunities in front of us. We, as a staff, do our best to document these defining moments and possibilities so that they might be remembered in the future. That, and keep the candy drawer as full and Banana-Laffy-Taffy free as possible."

- Libby Dunn '10

The 2009-2010 year marks the 106th volume of The Redwood yearbook. To document the people, places, and events that SCU students will forever remember, the staff chose the theme "Possibilities," and highlighted the many opportunities provided at Santa Clara. The staff was comprised of a handful of talented editors, photographers, contributing club members, and designers, who worked hard to meet deadlines and create a great yearbook. The goal of the staff was to show diverse profile of students and the different paths they have pursued, covering as many events and experiences as possible, creating a memory book for students to enjoy in the near and distant future. Said Editor Libby Dunn '10, "Developing and designing a yearbook is interesting because our staff is doing more than just page design. We provide an archive for the school, an outlet for the issues, fads, or trends of 2010 to be documented."

BB The great thing about the staff at TSC is the relationships we have formed together. When you're working hard to put out an issue on deadline it's a lot of time and work, but it's great to be able to look forward to spending time with everyone on staff. You couldn't ask for a better environment on production nights. DD

For students looking for possibilities to get involved and develop as people of competence, conscience, and compassion, SCAPP (the Santa Clara Community Action Program) offers a plethora of service and leadership programs. SCAPP's mission is aimed empowering those in needs by providing ministry to the homeless, those with disabilities, and those in need of mentoring and special care, with programs like New Beginnings, Special Olympics, ESL, and LUCHA. Although SCAPP's offerings are diverse, this has been a challenging year to maintain all of the programs. Said SCAPP director Amanda Sobrepeña '10, "We have definitely felt the effects of the economy. Programs have ended, but we have tried to be creative and maintain as many service opportunities as possible." The success of SCAPP, even in tough economic times, is due to its dedicated and diverse group of volunteers who work hard to reach out to different student demographics and other's outside the community.

Salsa Clara is Santa Clara University's Salsa Dancing Performance Team. Each year, they work on perfecting one amateur routine to perform on campus at SCU and in the greater salsa community during the spring quarter. What is unique about the team is that everyone is invited to try-out, even those with no prior dance experience. Along with their choreographer/founder/director of Salsa Clara, Danny Zepeda, the club teaches everyone the Salsa basic, then moves on to various combinations, formation changes, performance attitudes and even tricks! The team does, however, require that ALL team members are totally committed and dedicated to personal improvement and team growth. Salsa Clara provides a great environment for one to gain self-confidence, meet new people, and learn or perfect salsa dancing techniques, and have a great time. They also enjoy many outings throughout the year, including salsa socials around the area and team dinners. This year's co-captains are Natalia Chavez, Keesa Robinson, and Michael Miyasato. The choreographer/director/founder is Danny Zepeda, a SCU alum, who is part of a Professional Salsa Team which won the World's First Salsa Championships. Salsa Clara would like to thank Danny for leading the team and they feel incredibly privileged to have someone who is so talented and committed to developing Salsa Clara and its members.

Hit The Slopes

Nestled just a few short hours away from the beautiful slopes of Tahoe and Truckee, Santa Clara's winter months provide the perfect weekend getaway for shredders and snowbunnies alike. These winter sport enthusiasts congregate under the great Ski and Snowboard Club, a club which boasts a motto of "Chill people, Chill Mountain, Chilly Weather".

Ski or Snowboard not your forte? Are you from a place where the highest hill is the freeway on ramp? Well no experience, no problem. They're main goal? Get to the mountain as often as possible.

Currently lead by students Richard Jaramillo, Mariah Agee, Maggie Ryan, and Andrew Thomas, this year's winter season was nothing less than spectacular. The club leased a cabin in Truckee and had season passes to Alpine Meadows in Tahoe.

Sound like fun? Welp, folks... thats what it is!

You are here because you love to carve snow-caked mountains, and we love you for that!

Tradition of excellence does not end with our top rated academics or the plethora of on campus activities. No. At any time of year, students can head to the courts and watch the Broncos buck the WCC competition in one of our 19 Division-I sports. And these hundreds of contests throughout the year only begin to scratch the surface of the athletic powerhouse that makes up the SCU Broncos. Santa Clara is also the home to 18 competitive club sports teams. These teams only further the SCU reputation for athletic excellence. Two such teams: Women's Lacrosse club team, which currently wields the nations top spot, and the historical men's Rugby club provides great entertainment to students during their matches right here on campus. And what team would be complete without their faithful following of Ruff Riders. The largest club on campus, the FAN-tastic group keeps the stands full of supporters for our Broncos in action. With the help of this group and the spirit squad of Dance Team, Cheer, and PepBand there's not a mouth in the house that won't yell- GO BRONCOS!

Ruff Riders

What is the one thing you will remember about your four years at Santa Clara? Many would say they simply cannot forget the school spirit surrounding the athletic events where the presence of Ruff Riders is immense. For many years, the club has been creating a fun-filled atmosphere for students to join in cheering on their athletic teams. Students will remember the times they were surrounded by 300 other Ruff Riders in Leavey when our boys basketball team played Gonzaga. They will be able to hear our school fight song being played by the pep band at our women's soccer games. If you hear music blasting, a crowd going crazy, cheerleaders and a dance team, you know you have found the Ruff Riders!

The largest student organization on campus

Over 3,500 members

Be a part of our Bronco Spirit!

For the first time in six years, the Ruff Riders have officially set a new school record. On Friday, January 8th, 2010 over 1,150 Ruff Riders attended the SCU vs. USD men's basketball game. Keep it up Ruff Riders!

What do the Ruff Riders do for your team?

"The Rough Riders and fans give us the energy and motivation we need to play with effort, focus, and heart throughout the game as well as in warmups."

SCU FIGHT SONG

All hail to S.C.U.
Honor her prestige and fame,
Oh! hold high those standards
As we go into the game.

Chorus: Varsity fight for Santa Clara
Banners of red and white on high
No matter how great your foe men [team],
Let your motto be "to do or die."

Rah! Rah! Varsity men [team],
We are cheering for you,
Our gallant heroes, sturdy, staunch and true
Remember the right and might of Red and White
When Santa Clara warriors fight,
For Victory, and our dear old S.C.U.

Then U. fight! fight! for the Alma Mater we love,
oh fight! fight! and strength shall come from above,
We now acclaim your fame,
Rah! Rah! Rah!

Come join our happy throng,
Oh make the welkin resound,
Help build to tradition,
That S.C.U. men [team] ne'er give ground.

While Hamilton stands guard,
Over thy rich, fertile vale,
Belov'd Alma Mater,
Teach no word akin to fail.

“Gonzaga always bring the best response from the students, the environment is electric. It's always incredible to see Deavey packed to capacity, that's what school spirit is all about.”

Jill Smulski '10

Our goal is to continue to work hard to bring exciting, new routines to the season. All spirit teams work together to create an exhilarating atmosphere for the Bronco fans.

Alyson Okamura '10

Our hope for the year is directly reflected in our title of spirit organization. We hope to inspire the crowd and the members of all of the sports organizations to play the best game they can.

Bronco Cross Country

The thought of running miles at a time might make most Santa Clara student cringe, but these Broncos could think of nothing better than letting their minds free and their feet race all up and down the California coast. The Men's and Women's Cross Country teams race in invitationals and jamborees throughout the state nearly every weekend of fall quarter and spend most of their off time training for the next season. Each race includes a grueling track, plenty of running, and a small following of loyal fans that cheer these Broncos on from start to finish. This year's biggest accomplishment? Stephanie Wilson of the Women's team placed 28th at the NCAA National Championships, 6th at the NCAA Regional Championships, and was named the 2009 WCC champion.

With this honor, Wilson was also honored as Santa Clara's first ever All-American Honor in Cross Country. Her huge win for the Broncos serves as an example of the excellent program at SCU. Humbled by the win, Wilson is excited to prepare for next year and another great season with the Broncos.

Kickin' it Old School

This season proved to be very exciting with six games ending in overtime and a burst of improvement late in the season. Jalil Anibaba, '11 describes this year's team as being the hardest working team he has ever been a part of. He attributes this to the team's strong work ethic that undoubtedly led to their constant improvement and success late in the season. One of the team's strongest moments this season was their November 6, 2009 win over USF on national television. This year's overall top scorer was Erik Hurtado '09 with seven goals.

Katherine Reynolds

Senior captain Katherine Reynolds' greatest accomplishment throughout her four years on the Santa Clara soccer team has been the team's scale of improvement this season when compared to last year. Their hard work and dedication this season has led them to the 16th seed in the NCAA tournament. Her favorite moment as a player goes straight back to the very beginning of her Santa Clara career. After starting the first game of the season as a freshman, she scored the winning goal to beat Wake Forest 1-0. Katherine is incredibly grateful for the memories and amazing seasons she has shared at Santa Clara and hopes to continue her soccer career by being drafted into the Women's Professional League in January. She also hopes to continue to play with the U-23 women's national team. Katherine's many athletic accomplishments include being placed on the Missouri Athletic Club Hermann Trophy Watch List in 2008 and being named All-WCC first team and WCC ALL-Academic with teammate Kiki Bosio.

Bronco Men's Basketball 2009 - 2010 Season

The Santa Clara Men's Basketball team had a great season this year with a new star point guard, Robert Smith '13, and four other freshmen joining the team. As this page goes to print about halfway through the season Smith leads the team in minutes and is one of the top scorers. Marc Trasolini '12, Raymond Cowels '13, and Niyi Harrison '13 have also been very powerful on both offense and defense. This season brought so much excitement that a record was set for most students in attendance when 1,150 Ruff Riders packed the stands of Leavey Center on Friday, January 8, 2010 to see the Broncos play St. Mary's College. With five freshmen and four sophomores on the team, these guys show some real promise for future seasons.

Women's Basketball

As an extremely young team, the Broncos fared well this season. While their Win-Loss record might not reflect the most impressive season, a closer look at the scores proves that this team was in for the fight in every game. With most score differences within 10 points, the team played with heart and ambition during every contest. Not to be underestimated, the team headed into the annual WCC tournament in Las Vegas, Nevada with one goal in mind: show the WCC what Bronco women are made of. And they did just that winning all three contests and beating number 17 ranked Gonzaga. All in all, the team consistently put up a great performance all season and proved that the Broncos are a force to be reckoned with and have a bright future ahead of them.

Led by Tim Huss '10 and coached by Wieslaw Kujda, this years Bronco Men's Crew team had another successful season with races throughout California. The team ended the season in New Jersey at the Intercollegiate Rowing Association's Championship Regatta.

Thanks to a generous donation by nine recent SCU Crew alumni, the team began the season with a brand new Vespoli V1 boat with room for eight rowers and one coxswain. The boat is named "The Demander" after Geoff Demander '09 who led the donation effort. Due to technological advances, the new vessel will allow this years team to better compete at their true ability.

Women's Tennis

"We are young, but dangerous," says Isabelle Hoy, '12 of the SCU women's tennis team. "The team has a lot of potential and energy. We have great ambitions for the 2009-2010 season: we want to beat LMU and UC Santa Barbara for the first time ever in Santa Clara Women's tennis history!" The nine-woman team, coached by Ben Cabell (Head Coach), Tricia Guidance (Assistant Coach), and Derek Fitzpatrick (Volunteer Assistant Coach) also hopes to place in the top four at the WCC Conference Tournament this year. Said Carmen Pham, '11, "I am looking forward to our conference tournament at the end of our season in April (West Coast Conference). It is an accumulation of all of our hard work that we have put out during the year, and it is our time to shine."

Though the women's team has a strong sense of team spirit and high hopes for their group accomplishments, they also are able to focus on individual competition in their singles and doubles matches. "My personal goal for the season is to keep moving forward and keep growing," says Pham.

The SCU women's tennis team are as dedicated to their teammates as they are to their sport, and they truly enjoy the experience of part of a team community. Said Carmen Pham '11, "With our team, every day at practice is a new favorite memory. Every person on our team has their own little quirks that make practice enjoyable."

My hope for the '10 season is to keep up what we achieved so early on in the season. We have already started to make a name for ourselves after our last two matches, and I want us to continue that. I also hope that we keep the Bronco spirit and value alive and be great representatives for our school.

and A with Nicolas Vinel:

Q: What is your favorite part about tennis?
 A: I love tennis for the game. I love playing tennis because it is a fight between yourself and your opponent. I love playing doubles matches, because I think it's more spectacular, more fun and pleasant because you play with a partner.

Q: What has been your favorite match this season?
 A: At this moment my favorite match was in doubles against NLV, at Las Vegas. We won 11-9 in the tiebreak with my partner Kyle Dandan, and we saved four match points. It was intense, and a good match. I was happy to give this precious point to my team.

Q: Seeing as you are from France, how do you like California?
 A: California was a dream for me. In France, we only heard about Florida and California. I looked at some schools in California, and Derek Mills (my coach here at SCU) contacted me and proposed that I come play here. It is a great school and a great team. I was excited and could not wait to join the team!

Men's Waterpolo

With senior Captains Jack Wall, '09, Mike Sorgenfrei, '09 and Liam Farrell, '09 leading the way and a team better than what Santa Clara has seen in years, this season's men's water polo players have the potential to do something their 30-year-old program has never done before: reach the Final Four. This potential has made these boys work even harder and has allowed them to successfully develop a strong sense of camaraderie. Though all this effort is challenging at times, Marcus Akerland, '12 says he loves it for the very reason that, "water polo requires a combination of several talents that must be executed together in order to excel." With the addition of the new Sullivan pool, excelling is exactly what this team is doing.

Senior Spotlight Liam Farrell

Four-year starter Liam Farrell is finishing up his last quarter at SCU as a finance major this fall, while also serving as co-captain of SCU's water polo team. Playing every day for almost a decade, Farrell reflects that water polo has largely attributed to his good time management as the three-hour-a-day practices, countless weekend tournaments both home and away, and the early morning weight lifting sessions in Malley have kept him extremely busy. Juggling these obligations has allowed him to develop a strong work ethic. Farrell explains, "[This year's team has been] the best team I've ever played on. I love all the guys, and Coach Wilbur is awesome and extremely understanding of our hectic schedules." With three years of college experience under his belt, Farrell tried to set a good example for the younger guys as he remembered the hard transition into college and how much playing water polo helped him create a solid network of friends, while also keeping that competitive edge with his teammates that "always challenges the team to work harder." With the team being ranked higher than it has in years, Farrell's hard work is eminent.

Women's Water Polo

The Santa Clara women's Water Polo Team started as a club sport in 1996 and gained varsity status in 1999. They are now in their sixth season as a Division 1 team, after moving up from Division 3. The Broncos have come a long way, with the help of many talented coaches including the current men's and women's coach, Keith Wilbur. With the experience of three leading seniors, the team hopes to be in the championship game at the end of the season. This, according to the team, will be their biggest triumph. Bring it on!

"Our team has talent, spirit, and most of all bravery" -Rochelle Stowe '11

Jenny Knutson '10

and A With Senior, Rochelle Stowe :

What is your favorite part of water polo?

There is a certain barrier that is broken when you get to a college level sport. It's a threshold, a point where your body can't take any more pain, but your mind can. I value this pressure, the challenge, and the triumph in the end when we take off our caps and do our team huddle.

How has your experience at SCU been as a member of the team?

I've played on four teams, really. Every year is different, which makes playing water polo more dynamic than the games themselves. Team chemistry and work ethic have changed as often as our seniors graduate, but I take pride equally every year. Also, my team is my family. I've grown throughout my college years with water polo girls always in my life--and that's an amazing gift I have, water polo girls are very fun people.

What is your proudest water polo moment here, at SCU?

It goes down, my proudest moment was in 2009, when our team took second in WWPAs, the best any Santa Clara Water Polo Program (men's and women's) has ever done. To be able to make that kind of history is rare, and sharing the celebration with my teammates, at a home game, was priceless.

Men's and Women's Track

SCU Track is a a young team composed of mostly distance runners. Each member is extremely excited about the upcoming season and has set very high standards and goals for themselves. Although track is considered a "team" sport, each are held accountable for their respected events. Sophomore Evan Hennessey explained that he loves distance because "there is no way around perseverance and hard work if you want to be successful. You might be talented, but you always have to put in the training in order to well. I did track last year and I plan to do it all throughout my college experience here at SCU."

What's your favorite part about being a Bronco student-athlete?

The Team. As an athlete, I am around the same group of individuals almost seven days a week. We push each other during a workout, work together during races, and enjoy meals together after our runs. It is through these experiences that I have formed friendships that will last a lifetime. I am very honored and privileged to represent Santa Clara in a race. In putting on a Santa Clara uniform, I show my commitment and dedication to the university that has bestowed upon me so many opportunities.

This year's Santa Clara University Softball team has proven to be a strong group of players with constant improvement throughout the season. The team has really come together this year with a solid defense from the infield and the outfield as well as great batting skills. Star players this season include outfielders Nicole Picard, Briana Knight and Jamie Wallis, infielder Kristen Welsh, and catcher/infielder Emily Batt. One of the highlights of the season was the teams camping trip to Yosemite where they climbed half dome. On the way to each game, the team listens to a CD of their favorite songs and sets goals for themselves. The team also shows a lot of promise for the future with its two new freshman pitchers Ali Nash and Riley McKay.

Bronco Baseball

Since the beginning of the year, the Bronco baseball team has been hard at work getting ready for what they hope to be a successful season. The team is composed of twenty first-year players, and 14 of them are freshmen. Young talent and a handful of accomplished upperclassmen will hopefully carry the team to their hope of postseason play. Head coach Mark O'Brien is in his 9th season with the Broncos, and is one of three coaches within the 125 years Santa Clara Baseball has been operating to reach the 200-win milestone, with over 218 career victories.

Q & A with Steve Kalush

Q) How long have you been playing baseball?

A) Since I was seven.

Q) How have you developed as a player in the past four years?

A) I feel like I have developed a lot both in getting better physically and learning how to be a pitcher and not just a thrower. I now throw four different pitches versus only two my freshman year. And my velocity has improved from throwing mid 80's to around 90 mph.

Q) What is the most important thing your coaches have taught you?

A) To be a competitor and be mentally tough especially when you aren't doing well. You have to go out there and be confident in yourself and believe you're going to get the job done even when you don't have your best stuff.

Q) Have you enjoyed being a college athlete?

A) Yes, sometimes it gets stressful. But spending six to eight hours at the field six days a week while going to class, doing homework, and having a social life, has taught me how to manage my time and focus on my priorities. Although being a student athlete can be tough, I feel very lucky to have been given the chance to play college baseball.

Men's and Women's Golf

Miki Ueoka, '11

Tammy Surtees, '10

With a team full of experience, the Women's golf team has had a successful season. "I think we're doing a good job at posting scores that we know we can shoot, and as a team we have been working a lot on the mental side the game," says junior Miki Ueoka. Undoubtedly, the team's camaraderie has helped the women achieve this goal. "Our team is pretty hilarious," Ueoka says. Frequent team dinners and scheduled hangouts created just the atmosphere they needed. "We get along really well," Ueoka explains, "thankfully, because we spend so much time together."

With only three more tournaments left in the season, senior Erin Sullivan says, "We are looking forward to building on the momentum we built in the past...we want to be competitive with USF at the West Coast Conference Tournament and take over the number two spot in conference."

The women's dedication is impressive. "Playing a collegiate sport is such a privilege and such an amazing experience. It definitely gets tough to balance with school," Ueoka admits, "but we get to travel and play tournaments...basically we get to do something we love all the time."

It is a good thing the Men's golf team loves to travel to exotic locations, because that's exactly what they've been doing all season. "The best part about being on a college golf team is all the free golf! We get to play some of the best courses in the country," explains junior Tyler Ichikawa. Sophomore Cory Mehl seconds that: "we get to travel to cool tournament venues like Hawaii and play a lot of nice country clubs around the bar area."

The tournaments haven't all been vacations, however. The team works hard juggling the schedule of a full time student and college athlete. Their hard work is paying off. "We have two tournament wins [and many rankings in the top five]; we are looking strong to make NCAA Regionals," says junior Scott Travers. Their goals are to not only win the WCCs, but also to go on to Regionals. "This season has been by far the best season I have been a part of since I've gotten here," Travers reveals. "We are on the verge of making the post-season for just the second time in school history!"

The guys couldn't have gotten so far without great team camaraderie. Their competitive nature pushes one another to be the best golfer he can be, yet they are also all great friends. Ichikawa explains, "Since we spend so much time together, we really get to learn a lot about each other." The team may feel like family, but for six members of the team, they really are. With three sets of brothers on the team, Ichikawa says, "when we say our team is like family, we mean it!"

Intramural Sports

Friendly Competition

Hundreds of students participated in intramural sports each quarter this year. Students with an interest in athletics and competition formed teams and competed weekly in a wide variety of sports including flag football, tennis, volleyball, badminton, basketball, soccer, table tennis, and softball. Winning teams went on to compete in the playoffs, but the experience give every student the chance to compete as a Bronco.

TEAMWORK

-Chris Ledesma '12

Intramural sports give students the opportunity to be physically active while playing sports with friends. It also allows students to try new sports they usually wouldn't play in a completely welcoming and fun atmosphere.

This year's SCU Women's Lacrosse Team went to new heights with one of their best seasons ever.

This year's Bronco Women's Lacrosse team certainly went above and beyond previous years. As this book goes to press, the team holds the title of number one in the nation. More than half way through their season, the team is undefeated and is expected to continue their domination throughout the remainder of the season. The team is led by senior midfielder, Krista Shaw who was named preseason player of the year by Lacrosse Magazine and senior defender, Jamie Staudt. Other team leaders include Ellen Metzger '10 on defense, Maggie Burke '13 at midfield, and Maria Pestana '12 and Gracie Binder '11 on attack. Ellen Reiling '13 describes the team as being very close. Before each game, the team goes over their goals, one of which is to earn a spot at Nationals. One of the season's highlights was defeating the number two ranked UC Santa Barbara 12-11 in early March.

Playing lacrosse this year at SCU has allowed me to be active and make many new friendships that I know will last a lifetime. It was amazing to be a part of such a successful team as a freshman.

Club Sports

Men's Paintball

"I particularly enjoy paintball because it's a sport you have to give 120% in the game but when you walk off the field, everyone starts making jokes about the game and plays. It's a game where you have to think about a play but at the same time, just do it. One has to make a quick, split-second decision and commit to it. Like a melding on instinct and logic, a player thinks and does almost instantaneously. We've got a great group of guys and we know that we're the team so it's up to us to make things happen, no one else.

My favorite quote is from a paintball shirt, "SCREW THE MONEY/ I PLAY FOR PRIDE." To me, it's especially true of college paintball where all we really get is bragging rights and the enjoyment of the sport."
-Ian Ghows, Captain

Men's Volleyball

Men's Rugby

SCU club sports allow students to compete at a high level while sustaining the club themselves. I think that this aspect gives people a unique experience because you aren't simply a player, you are a player and an officer. I'm the president so I'm not only involved during practices and Saturday games, but in all the day-to-day operations of the club. My favorite thing about rugby is the comradery. Our team is so close knit, and I think that stems back to our strong senior leadership. We had a strong freshman class, and we have a great core group that has stuck together for all four years."

-Matthew Saydah, Captain

Students.

The proverbial backbone for every other activity on campus, the student body is the key component of the SCU college experience. With just under 5,000 undergraduates and 3,000 graduates, the number of different personalities on this campus reflects a real diversity that Santa Clara holds dear. These personalities are what make us unique, what bring interesting a different points of view to our classes, what create the bonds of friendship that are meant to last forever. All of these personalities converge on this campus, and while knowing each and every individual is a goal that is close to unattainable, you're sure to get a nod or a smile on each walk to class, assuring you that, beyond the stress of college life, we all come together at SCU. Together, the possibilities are endless.

Our Most Precious Daughter Annie,

It seems like only yesterday that we brought you to Santa Clara as a freshman. It was a happy and sad time. Your first time away from home, you would be missed so much, but it was your time to go and start the beginning of your wonderful life. You were a true blessing the day you came into this world and as time went on we continued to be blessed by a daughter who has given us nothing but joy. We watched as you grew into this phenomenal young woman who overcame obstacles in pursuit of her dream. Well our darling daughter your time has come. Your professional life is just beginning and we wish you all the happiness you so deserve on the journey that lies before you. Embrace it, and may God hold you in His arms and keep you in His heart forever! With love your mami and papa

To My Sister Annie,

I hope you had an amazing time at Santa Clara University as well as an exciting senior year. I wish you the best of luck after college and can't wait to spend every single day together! Just kidding! You have been an amazing sister and I hope you know that I have always looked up to you and still do. You are the best sister anyone could ask for and I am so lucky to have you! You always help me with my boy troubles and give me advice on how to do better in school. I love you so much and I hope you know that even though you and I fight, you will always be my best friend and no one can replace you. I love you so much and I wish you the best of everything. I love your sister, MoMo

To Annie,

Annie has a precocious talent for making friends and is gifted with a great mind for mathematics and engineering. It has been my extreme pleasure to watch her transform into a woman over the last few years and I am equally excited to see which pursuits she will aim at in the coming years. Hopefully her life's road will wind through Hawaii so that I can see her more often. Love Johnny

Dearest Annie,

We lived fast and hard in the times of Ken and Barbie, but you still made it through! I never doubted that you would grow up to become the amazing woman you are today and I am so unbelievably proud of you. As you continue your journey, know that I will always be right beside you, good and bad, laughing all the way. I love you so much and congratulations on all you have achieved! Love your brother, Jeremy

Nicole Wadley

David Bass

Dear David,

Congratulations on your graduation. We are incredibly proud of you. Your drive and perseverance paid off! You exhibit diligence and dedication to your goals, which will carry you far. This is just the beginning of your many successes. It has been a privilege sharing our lives with you. We are the lucky ones for having done so. Take all of your acquired wisdom, nurture and cultivate it, then give it back with gratitude.

IF

If you can keep your head when all about you
 Are losing theirs and blaming it on you;
 If you can trust yourself when all men doubt you,
 But make allowance for their doubting too;
 If you can wait and not be tired by waiting,
 Or, being lied about, don't deal in lies,
 Or, being hated, don't give way to hating,
 And yet don't look too good, nor talk too wise;
 If you can dream - and not make dreams your master;

If you can think - and not make thoughts your aim;
 If you can meet with triumph and disaster
 And treat those two imposters just the same;
 If you can bear to hear the truth you've spoken
 Twisted by knaves to make a trap for fools,
 Or watch the things you gave your life to broken,
 And stoop and build 'em up with wornout tools;
 If you can make one heap of all your winnings
 And risk it on one turn of pitch-and-toss,
 And lose, and start again at your beginnings
 And never breath a word about your loss;
 If you can force your heart and nerve and sinew
 To serve your turn long after they are gone,
 And so hold on when there is nothing in you
 Except the Will which says to them: "Hold on";
 If you can talk with crowds and keep your virtue,
 Or walk with kings - nor lose the common touch;
 If neither foes nor loving friends can hurt you;
 If all men count with you, but none too much;
 If you can fill the unforgiving minute
 With sixty seconds' worth of distance run -
 Yours is the Earth and everything that's in it,
 And - which is more - you'll be a Man my son!

--Rudyard Kipling

John,

We couldn't be prouder of you. You are part of a proud Bronco tradition, a family of graduates from SCU. John A. Sobrato, John M. Sobrato, Abby (Dorsa) Sobrato, Tony Dorsa, Kathy Dorsa, Keith Dorsa and Sheri Sobrato have all walked the stage before you, with your brother Jeff to "walk" next year. But as you receive your diploma it is pretty cool to see that three John Sobratos will be on the stage at the same time; trustee, regent and graduate.

Congratulations! You know how much we love you. You are the joy in our life. We know you have enjoyed your years at SCU with highlights such as a double major in History and Poly Science, an Immersion trip to Tijuana, Study Abroad Copenhagen, to your four years of Pi Kappa Alpha, serving as Social and VP. You are finally moving out of "the Penthouse" and into the world of inspiring youth with your love of history. You will be a fabulous teacher and the world needs you.

We love you son.

You've Hit the Jackpot with Kappa Alpha Theta. A Whole Bunch of Angels but One Hell of a House. Dream Theta. It's a Great Day to be a Theta.

I'd like to.... I'd like to say something that I've prepared for you tonight.... Well actually, that was inspired by a little something Montana prepared for a few of us wolves back in January in a little place called "Sin City":

I tend to think of myself as a one man wolfpack, but when I came to Santa Clara and met my Thetas, my wolfpack, it grew by many. I was alone first in the wolfpack and then you all joined in later. Now, three and a half years later, sitting here and reflecting on nights of laughing so hard you could have sworn your sides split right down the middle, talking till dawn for absolutely no reason, spontaneous road trips, dinners out to cure a bad week, and shuffle board at Normandy Lounge for our favorite founder's birthday, I thought, "Wait a second, could it be?" and now I know for sure. In my time at Santa Clara, I have added more than 40 girls to my wolfpack. All of us wolves, running around The Clara together.

So thank you, my Theta Ladies of 2010, for the best is an honor and a privilege to call you my sisters amazing, incredible, and CRAZY stuff we do next.

Letter from the Editor

Libby Dunn

Before deadweek of the fall of my sophomore year, I spent 7 minutes in complete silence, falling from 13,000ft. While most would classify skydiving as a sport reserved for the clinically insane, I beg to differ. During my time in the air, I left all my thoughts, worries, and pressures in the plane and just sat there and appreciated the simplicity of life. This moment of clarity has influenced me to keep my eyes open to the possibilities in front of me and the experiences I can have. Two and a half years later, it feels close to impossible to try and sum up my experience in one page, much less the experiences of all 5000 something students during the 2010 year. One thing I know for sure: time has flown. From the first day of orientation to the first night of my last spring quarter, this school has allowed me the amazing possibilities of fun, amazing friends, internships, nights out, nights in, and a life defining study abroad experience, and has allowed millions more to the rest of the student body. I hope, in one way or another, we have captured that this year.

There is no way, however, that a book, even as great as this one, could ever hope to capture every amazing opportunity on this campus, every event or function or rally or club meeting. What we can do, and I believe have done with flare and excellence is our best to encapsulate the life of a Bronco during 2010. With the amazing support of an extremely hardworking, dedicated, and talented design staff, we have produced an amazing piece of history—a documentation of the years highest highs, lows, and the normal, average, amazing nights in between. The creativity and innovative thinking brought forth by these designers pushed this book beyond the borders of what I could have hoped for and I am so proud of the work they have accomplished.

The images in the book do more than just show the day to day actions on our campus. Our photographers captured the feeling and life within these activities, how it really feels to be in the student section watching the Broncos buck the Zags in Leavy or stand front row at the Kid Cudi concert. This book was made possible only through the hard work and dedication of the 14 members of this staff and to them I issue a very large and very well earned thank you. We did it, we're done, and it looks amazing.

So sitting here, as a Senior in my final classes, I am faced with the realization that the experience that I began 4 years ago is quickly coming to a close. Whether you are a freshman, rushing as fast as you can to get out from under that token freshman label; a sophomore, mentally preparing for a semester in a completely different culture or coming to the realization that, "HOLY COW" you're halfway done with this ride; a junior, coming into your own as the future leaders of this school; or a senior, moving out, moving back, moving on, or chilling out; you must remember one thing. Pause once in a while, take a deep breath, and appreciate the possibilities around you. Some of the littlest ones can show you the time of your life.

Thanks for everything Santa Clara. Keep it up broncos!
Much Love,
Libby Dunn

"My second year on staff has been nothing but a pleasure. Of course I can't get enough of the writing and the design in yearbook, but I have to say that this year's staff is what made it so much fun. Late night deadline crunches in the office could not have been spent with a better group of people. I love my designers! They're the best."

-Caitlin Millar '12

"It has been an amazing journey watching all of our hard work transform 240 blank white pages into the works of art they are now. This year went by quickly, but I hope we were able to trap some of it in this book so that everybody can remember it forever. Thank you so much to all of The Redwood staff, especially Libby, Caitlin, Jenny, Irene, and Callie. I enjoyed all of our late nights working on deadlines and being the last people left in Benson. You guys were the reason it was so much fun to make this book. 'My favorite photograph is the one I will take tomorrow.' See you next year."

"Working for The Redwood has been great. Once again, we have a talented staff, and we all have fun putting these pages together. I hope you enjoy the book as much as we do!"

"The Redwood has been the most unpredictable part of my Sophomore year. One day we were relaxing on the couches listening to music talking about photos and stories, and the next we were in the office for over thirteen hours while ordering pizza, watching Ryan run in and out taking make-up photos, wondering if we were going to get any sleep because all the while we were attempting to make our deadlines. This has been a wild ride-a thoroughly enjoyable wild ride! It has been rewarding to be able to document an entire year into a book, allowing people the opportunity to remember that year for a lifetime."

My experiences this year as a staff photographer has been wonderful. I cannot recommend it highly enough. It has given me the opportunity to participate in a number of unique experiences which would have been impossible without yearbook. For example, between weeks 9 and 10 of winter quarter, it was requested that I take photographs of a baseball game in which SCU was playing Southern Illinois University. Through various connections I had previously established, I was able to obtain a press pass that allowed me to take photographs on the field. The ability to stand in the bull pen right next to the players was a unique experience which I may never be able to repeat in my life. While taking these photographs, I was privy to the intimate and private conversations of the players for both team. After the game, I was escorted to the press box high above the baseball diamond where I spoke to those who were officiating the game. Through my participation in yearbook, I was given the opportunity to have an experience that very few baseball, or sports fans, for that matter, ever have. This is just one example of the sorts of situations which occurred frequently throughout the year. Overall, it was a wonderful experience I would not trade for anything.

"I'm so happy to have been part of the yearbook this year because I love what we do - we capture as much of the year as possible so that at the end, everyone can look back and see all of the amazing things we as a community have accomplished and all of the fun we've had. This was my second year working for The Redwood, and I've learned so much from being here; I will be taking away many fun memories and important life lessons that will always be a part of my time at the yearbook. I hope you enjoy the book, we made it for you!"
